MSU Basketball Programs Participate in American Cancer Society's Coaches vs. Cancer Three-Point Attack

MOREHEAD, Ky. -- The Morehead State University men's and women's basketball programs, with special help from head coaches Dick Fick and Janet Gabriel, have joined forces this season with the American Cancer Society in its Coaches vs. Cancer Three-Point Attack.

The Coaches vs. Cancer Three-Point Attack combines the excitement of college basketball's three-point shot with raising funds for cancer research, patient services and education. Individuals are invited to pledge a specific amount for every three-point field goal the Eagles and Lady Eagles make during the 1996-97 regular season (26 games).

"When the American Cancer Society began this program, I saw it as an outstanding opportunity for our basketball program to make a difference in a very worthwhile endeavor," said Fick. "We're a team that has been among the national leaders in three-point field goals made for several seasons.

"In this case, we know that fans love to see the three-point shot made and get excited about it, plus everyone knows the importance of battling this terrible disease. Here, they have the opportunity to participate in a win-win situation."

For Gabriel, the fight against cancer has a more personal side.

"I'm excited about getting involved in this program because of my family's experience with the disease," Gabriel said. "We lost my father to cancer, so it was natural that I would want to battle it. I think everyone has been touched by cancer in some way and understand the importance of programs such as this.

"Anything we can do to help with research and education in this area is important. I especially think that people need to understand that there are a lot of things that we can do to prevent cancer, and that makes education a very important part of the American Cancer Society's fight against the disease."

Fick and Gabriel have been taking the message of the Coaches vs. Cancer Three-Point Attack to area civic groups and to area radio stations through public service announcements and interviews. They remain available to talk to any groups and to be interviewed on the subject.

Pledge cards are available at MSU basketball games, the Eagle athletic department in the Academic-Athletic Center and from the American Cancer Society. More information may be obtained by calling the athletic department at 606-783-2088 or the American Cancer Society in Morehead at 606-784-3443.

A Look Back

Middle Tennessee forced 29 MSU turnovers, and scored 29 points off of those turnovers, en route to an easy 84-58 win over Morehead State Monday night in Johnson Arena. MTSU's Jessica Beaty led all scorers with 24 points, including 10-for-11 at the free throw line. Amy Kieckbusch led MSU with 18 and Alisha Griffeth added 13.

The loss was Morehead State's sixth in a row. The Lady Eagles have not won since the dramatic 80-79 win over Wofford on November 30 in Spartanburg, S.C. In that game, MSU point guard Hilary Swisher hit both ends of a one-and-one with two seconds remaining to give MSU the win.

What's Up Next

MSU continues the conference road trip, heading to Southeast Missouri for a 6:30 (EST) tipoff on Monday, January 13.
